

OUTLAW RIDERS WANTED ADVENTURE PACKAGE

Physical Requirements - Age requirement - 19 to 65 years of age.

When it comes to riding a horse, not everyone has the physical ability needed to participate safely. Basic riding skills are a necessary requirement for participation in the "Bill Miner Wild West Show" robbery performance. We will teach basic riding skills to all participants during the adventure package.

Outlaw Riders is an active, faster-paced horseback adventure. There are no rides of this type available in the world. Participants on our adventures really need to be in better than average physical condition. Guest ranches, trail rides and pack trips companies only allow riding at the walk, for short periods of time. If the rider is not in the best physical condition, this is extremely difficult and even dangerous on a more active adventure ride. Horseback riding is a physical activity, even at a slow walk. It requires that you have control of your upper body, good strength in your legs and the ability to control the movement of your body on the horse. If you don't have control, you are at risk for coming off the horse or possibly injuring the horse by rocking in the saddle or pounding on him at a trot. Horses don't like pain and they will respond to protect themselves.

Expect to be riding a horse under a variety of conditions for a few hours at a time, each day of your adventure. For example, the leg-muscles you use in cycling differ from those that are used for horseback riding. Physical fitness is an asset to being a guest outlaw.

We evaluate each "outlaw" on an individual basis for their physical requirements including horse riding skills and balance to determine the level of action we can provide for each person. In general, you should be reasonably physically fit and not suffer from any debilitating disease such as high blood pressure, heart disease or neurological disorder. You should not be taking any medications that affect balance or judgement. If you are carrying more than a few extra pounds of weight or think you have been suffering from an ailment that has yet to be diagnosed, now is the time to ask your doctor for their opinion on your physical ability and stamina.

Persons who are not physically capable of keeping up and riding correctly because of their physical condition may hold the rest of the group back and cause major logistical adjustments for our staff than can affect the entire group. In other words, it's not fair to everyone else on the ride if someone has overextended himself or herself physically. It is imperative that as a rider, you honestly assess your physical capabilities before you book a trip. These rides are designed to offer physically fit riders the opportunity to ride at faster gaits across wide-open country. If you are not in the physical condition to safely participate in this type of riding, you would be better served to book a trip with a company that can accommodate your needs. Or, lose the weight, build your body up, start riding regularly and join us the next year in the wide-open spaces! Don't hesitate to call and talk to us about your physical condition, we'll be happy to help you assess your skills and ability to enjoy an Outlaw Rider adventure safely and successfully.
